

GREGORINA

SANGIOVESE SUPERIORE DI ROMAGNA 2013

Sangiovese is Italy's most widely planted red grape, in Tuscany but also in neighboring regions like Emilia Romagna. Sangiovese grapes from Romagna generally produce wines with a richer fragrance. Gregorina Sangiovese is a vibrant combination of earthy and ripe, dark fruit flavors. Full bodied with intriguing tannins on the finish and a lively acidity that keeps the palate refreshed and wanting more. It will pair beautifully with first courses with savory sauces, pasta, medium-aged cheeses and all sorts of meat dishes.
