

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

LA BRI CHARDONNAY 2015

From Franschhoek, South Africa, La Bri Chardonnay sees subtle oak ageing and has a chalky, lemon, quince nose with crisp Granny Smith apple acidity on the palate and a lingering lime finish.

The flower on the labels is a Clivia miniata (or Yellow Clivia), after the Duchess of Northumberland, Lady Charlotte Clive who first cultivated the type specimen in England. The bright yellow colour of the Clivia is synonymous with our lively Chardonnay and its floral notes.

